Hamilton County Chapter of the
Ohio Genealogical Society

The Hamilton County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society invites you to enjoy doing research in our superb Public Library of Cincinnati & Hamilton County and in other area genealogical repositories. We wish you much success in gathering information for your family history.

Many area residents and Chapter members are descendants of those pioneers who came here to the U.S. Northwest Territory, beginning in late 1788. John Cleves Symmes was prominent among New Jersey men who, as partners, purchased the original large tract of land on the north side of the Ohio River and between the Great Miami and Little Miami Rivers. Cincinnati soon became the capital of the Territory, and by 1794 (after the defeat of the Indian tribes further north in Ohio), this whole region was safe for settlement. Hamilton County (originally encompassing a much larger area) was officially established in 1790. Ohio became the seventeenth state of the United States in 1803.

The greatest numbers of early settlers in Hamilton County were from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Connecticut, and Virginia. Europeans came from England, Ireland, and the German States, but the 1840s (and later) produced even greater numbers of German and Irish immigrants. After 1880, numerous Italians arrived, followed by eastern Europeans, many of Jewish heritage. African American families lived in Cincinnati in its early years; however, after World War I, many southern families came here to find work and better living conditions. For the same reasons, people from the Appalachian regions arrived here in the 1950s. Still later, many people of Asian backgrounds made Cincinnati their home. Thus, Cincinnati and its surrounding area is peopled by a rich diversity of heritages.

The Hamilton County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society was chartered in 1973 with twelve members. Now, in 1998, the Chapter is celebrating its 25th Anniversary with more than 1200 members! The Chapter offers a variety of educational and interesting programs each year, and participates in several projects and activities. The Chapter sponsors an annual Seminar, an annual Genealogy Fair, publishes books (see page 37), a newsletter, The Gazette, and a quarterly periodical, The Tracer. The Chapter also sponsors Special Interest Groups, focusing separately on computer usage, and on special research in German, Irish, and African American heritages. In addition, the Chapter honors members with proven German or Irish ancestors in Hamilton County before 31 Dec 1880, a "Pioneer Recognition Program" and members whose ancestors were in Hamilton County before 31 Dec 1820, a "First Families of Hamilton County Program".

If you are interested in the Hamilton County Genealogical Society, please write or phone for a membership brochure, or visit the Chapter's Website, as listed on the cover page. You may also write to the Chapter's Research Committee, requesting information or a list of local professional researchers. We are happy to provide you with a complete array of genealogical services and/or a list of the Chapter's publications.

NOTE: The first building used as the Hamilton County Courthouse was built about 1795 on Fifth St. between Main and Sycamore. It was replaced in 1801 by a limestone building located near the southwest corner of Fifth & Main facing Fifth Street. During the War of 1812 the Courthouse was used as a military barracks and accidentally set on fire by soldiers in 1813. Virtually all of the records were destroyed during this fire. In 1819 the Courthouse was rebuilt and was destroyed by fire in 1849. The Courthouse was rebuilt in 1851 and was destroyed during the Courthouse riot and fire of 1884. Many records were destroyed and gaps were caused in others. Some records were reconstructed, restored or salvaged. Today, Hamilton County records are located in the Courthouse, the William Howard Taft Center, the Hamilton County Administration Building, the Hamilton County General Health District on Chester Road and the Carl Blegen Library at the University of Cincinnati.
